Millwood Timber to High Bidder

Over six million board feet of standing timber in the Millwood reservoir area of southwest Arkansas is up for sale to the highest bidder and the Tulsa Army Engineer District, under whose jurisdiction the Millwood project will be constructed has issued a call for bids on the timber.

The timber is on approximately 7,000 acres of land in Township 12 South, Range 28 West, of Little River County, approximately 10 miles east of Ashdown, Ark. and 20 miles west of Hope.

The timber is identified as being in six compartments of land, and prospective bidders may bid on one or more of all compartments, but a separate bid must be submitted on each compartment, when more than one compartment is bid on.

Pine, oak, gum, hickory, pecan, ash, and cypress are in the aggregate, as is approximately 45,000 cords of pulp wood.

Successful bidders may have up to three years to remove the timber on all tracts but one. That tract, designated "Compartment 1" is in the initial construction area for the dam, and timber on the 320 acres involved must be removed within six months from date of acceptance of the bid by the Government.

Interested persons may inspect the timber land by contacting the Project Engineer Office, Millwood Dam, in Ashdown. Mail inquiries should be addressed to the Project Office at P.O. Box 488, Ashdown, and non-collect telephone calls on the matter will be received at TWilight 8-3791. Ashdown. Bid forms and invitations to bid may be obtained from the Project office at time of inspection or may be obtained from the Tulsa Engineer District, P.O. Box 61, Tulsa 2, Okla. Bids will be publicly opened at 10 a. m. CST on Feb. 1, 1962 at the Army Engineer's Office, 616 South Boston, Tulsa, Okla.

There are approximately 25,000 additional acres of standing timber being acquired adjacent to this area, which will be offered for sale during the next 12-18 months.

Couldn't Resist Playing Detective

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police said they jailed Arthur Drinkwater, 3, Sunday because he couldn't resist using a toy detective outfit he had purchased for his nephew.

Officers said Drinkwater, of Pine Hill N.J., started flashing the toy badge and identification card and drew out a toy pistol to impress patrons of a laproom. Someone called the real cops.

U. S. Plans to Distribute Fallout Data

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The government begins mass distribution Tuesday of its long-delayed booklet on the deadly dust of radioactive fallout and how to survive it.

Some 25 million copies will be left in home mailboxes or shipped to civil defense offices.

In pictures and simple sentences the 48-page booklet tells of death by blast and fire that would come to millions in areas of a thermonuclear assault. It offers positive hope of survival for millions more, describes the government's plan for community shelter spaces and tells how to build and stock home shelters costing $150 or less.

"The experience would be terrible beyond imagination and description but there is much that can be done to assure that it would not mean end of the life of our nation," the booklet says.

The Defense Department, as critic and publisher, expected criticism and quickly got some. Nuclear physicist Ralph E. Lapp said the booklet was a "fairly innocuous effort," telling nothing new and having limited value.

The basement shelters recommended, Dr. Lapp said, could become death traps for families within a few miles of a nuclear blast.

In anticipation of such comment, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara wrote in a brief preface that judgments on the civil defense program may differ.

"The factual information in this booklet has been verified by independent scientific authorities, and represents the best consensus of the scientific community that we can establish," McNamara said.

"The pocket-size book is titled 'Fallout Protection—What to Know and Do About Nuclear Attack.' It was produced, after months of redrafting and internal controversy, at a cost of $825,000. This booklet discounts the chances of nuclear disaster. It says government policies make an attack 'highly unlikely, and to keep it unlikely is their most important aim.'

The appraisal of blast and fallout effects is in terms of a five-ton weapon, smaller than the thermonuclear devices possessed by the Soviet Union, but Continued on Page Two

Inventory of White House Antiques

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy has issued a year-end inventory of the antiques arriving for the White House. They range from a looking glass used by George Washington to a sleigh bed.

She said there had been a wide response to her plan to decorate the executive mansion with furnishings that were part of the nation's history.

About 100 gifts were acknowledged by her fine arts committee in the second report since the First Lady started the program.

Among the gifts, loans and donations that came from virtually every state, and from Canada and France as well, were pieces that once were the property of historic figures.

A Chippendale looking glass used by the first president in his executive mansion in Philadelphia was loaned to the White House by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association, guardian of Washington's Virginia home.

Mrs. Edward J. Foy of Washington provided a pair of brass andirons and a tender from about 1850 that was the property of Continued on Page Two

Robber Holds a Couple Captive

NEW YORK (AP)—A safe company executive and his wife were held captive for 20 minutes by a pair of gunmen who robbed them of $43,700 in jewels and $300 in cash.

John Mosler, 39, president of the Mosler Safe Co., told police the well-dressed bandits forced their way into his auto early Sunday in front of his Fifth Avenue apartment house.

2 Bus Lines Struck in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The city's two largest bus lines were struck at the birth of the new year today by the Transport Workers Union. The lines transport 1.3 million riders a day.

The strike declaration went out at 12:01 a. m., after last minute high level conferences failed to bury the bone of contention—city concessions to ease the lines' financial plight.

Drivers on route when the strike went into effect continued on the job long enough to deliver their passengers, then returned to the garages, where pickets had been set up.

Altogether, 6,400 TWU employees are involved.

The struck companies, Fifth Avenue Coach Lines and its subsidiary, Surface Transit Inc., operate in Manhattan and the Bronx. Another subsidiary, Westchester Street Transportation Inc., also was affected.

The strike will not be felt seriously before Tuesday, when the Continued on Page Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three New Year's weekend traffic deaths were recorded in Arkansas through Sunday midnight. State Police forecast four would die on the state's highways in the 78-hour period ending at midnight tonight.

One person died in a fire and two died in hunting accidents.

A total of 25 persons died violently in Arkansas last week, 13 in traffic accidents, eight in shootings and four in fires.

Bobby Charles Thompson, 22, of Ozark, was killed and five persons were injured Sunday when their car overturned several times on U.S. Highway 64 three miles east of Mulberry.

Hurt were his wife, Barbara, 18; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Medlock, both 23, of Ozark; Franklin Kenny, 24, and Jenny Lou Medlock, 16, of Mulberry.

B. Ferguson, 75, Perishes in House Fire

Buford Ferguson, aged 75, a retired farmer, died Saturday night in a fire which destroyed his home west of Hope. The cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

The fire was discovered by Ferguson's neighbors. Members of the Hope Fire Dept. took a truck to the scene but were able only to prevent flames from spreading to other buildings. Mr. Ferguson lived alone.

He is survived by two sons, Johnny and Eugene Ferguson of Hope; four daughters, Mrs. Edie Colburn, Mrs. Hiram Hatfield, Mrs. Charles Key and Mrs. Ester Jeanes all of Hope, a brother, Ollis Ferguson of Idabel, Okla. three sisters, Mrs. H. B. Lamb of Murfreesboro, Mrs. Chris Pettijohn and Mrs. Jeff Roberts, both of Little Rock.

Steel Production Should Be Up

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel production in the United States during the first half of 1962 should be higher than it was during the first half of 1961, according to Board Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel Corp.

In a year-end statement released Sunday night, Blough forecast the nation's steel industry will turn out 58 to 60 million tons. This would be 30 per cent higher than the production during the first half of 1961.

Little Man Wants Peace During Year

By PIERCE LEHMBECK
Associate Press Staff Writer

The new year dawned in an air of guarded optimism today with the little fellow the world over sharing in a common hope that the leaders can implement their pledges towards lasting peace.

For many, however, the road to that long sought end appeared about as cloudy as the eyes of millions who celebrated the birth of 1962 with mirth and drink.

For Westerners, the major hope was that Soviet Premier Khrushchev meant it when he pledged that his country would "do everything possible to avoid the threat of war in 1962."

For those behind the Iron Curtain—those who got to read or hear it—President Kennedy's expressed hope for improved Soviet-American relations brought food for thought.

Kennedy ran in the new year at a party in Palm Beach, Fla., where he went to be near the bedside of his ailing father.

Khrushchev greeted 1962 at a traditional new year's reception at the Kremlin where he declared in a toast: "The main achievements during 1961 was that on most of the planet there was no war."

As the new year messages flowed among heads of state the world over, there were various other statements on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The Soviet trade union paper, Trud, flatly declared: "The world belongs to us." It said "the doomed world of capitalism will be unable to defend itself, even with nuclear weapons, from the inevitable course of historical development."

The Soviet Defense Ministry paper, Red Star, foresaw new Russian space successes in 1962 but added that questions of war and peace troubled the Soviet people.

As usual, the New Year burst upon most of the world in a turn of blaring auto horns, shouted hurrahs, night club toasts and carefree street gaiety.

More than 700,000 persons—the largest crowd in recent years—greeted 1962 in New York's Times Square.

Many of them poured out of night clubs in the famed tourist area where they had paid $20 to $30 just to get in.

Champagne corks also popped in the capitals of Western Europe, where boys kissed strange girls in laughing street throngs.

The new year's spirit in Britain was chilled by one of that nation's worst onslaughts of snow and ice. It kept thousands from downtown revels and they celebrated at home instead.

London's Trafalgar Square and Piccadilly Circus, which usually pack 100,000 as the old year dies, collected only a few shivering thousand.

Death Toll for Holiday Behind Prediction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll since the start of the long New Year's weekend today appeared running a little below pre-holiday estimates.

The National Safety Council, which estimated 330 persons might die in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period, urged motorists to drive with caution as millions of persons head for home after holiday visits.

Since the start of the holiday period at 6 p. m. local time Friday, the count showed 203 persons killed in traffic accidents. Fires claimed the lives of 53 persons and 39 others died in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all toll of 295.

Council officials said Sunday if the accident rate continued to the end of the holiday period at midnight tonight, the traffic toll would be a record low for a three-day New Year's weekend. The lowest death toll was 269 in the three-day 1949-1950 New Year's period.

The highest number of traffic fatalities for any New Year's three-day weekend was 374 in the 1959-1960 period. The record traffic toll for any three-day holiday was 609 in Christmas 1955.

In the 1960-61 three-day New Year's observance, 338 persons were killed on the highways. In other violent accidents, 66 perished in fires and 78 were killed in miscellaneous mishaps, an over-all total of 482.

An Associated Press survey during a non-holiday period, from 6 p. m. Friday, Dec. 8 to midnight Monday, Dec. 11, showed 347 persons killed in traffic accidents, 42 in fires and 57 in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 446.

State Gained in Field of Industry

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two conflicting reports were issued here over the weekend on Arkansas' industrial picture during 1961 but both agreed the state made considerable gains.

The state Chamber of Commerce report showed 63 new plants and 64 expansions provided 6,040 new jobs during the just-end year.

A state agency, the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, reported 54 new plants, 40 expansions and 7,000 new jobs.

Winthrop Rockefeller, AIOC chairman, said industrial growth in 1961 could be considered substantial although it wasn't the biggest year the state has recorded.

"I would hardly need to call attention to the fact that 1961 was a national recession year," Rockefeller said.

According to chamber-based figures, new and expanded Arkansas industries represented slightly over $4 million in capital investment.

The chamber said an additional $47,765,000 was invested in expansion and improvement programs by utilities, transportation and communication companies.

The largest single investment noted by the chamber was $4.5 million by Chase-Grocer Inc., a rubber products firm at El Dorado.

Jacuzzi Brothers, Inc., of Little Rock, a water pump firm, was listed by the chamber as having the largest number of employees with 400.

The book offers no hope for most persons within 10 miles of such a blast is delivered at ground level. Within a two-mile radius most buildings would be destroyed. Heat rays would kill unprotected people up to 10 miles away.

Although civil defense policy now favors community shelter, the booklet tells how homemade shelters can be made cheaply with coverings of earth, sand, concrete blocks or other materials.

The booklet is explicit about the problems of shelter life. It provides lists of needed food stuffs and supplies, along with such advice as this: "Probably the biggest single problem is the disposal of human waste. The most elemental device is a metal pail with a tight cover."

Ridgedale, Mo., was killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding collided head-on with another car (three miles north of Conway on U.S. Highway 65. Three other persons were hospitalized with injuries.

William Robert Stone, 31, of Marianna, associated Lee County agent, was fatally shot near Camden Saturday when a .20 gauge shotgun held by his 11-year-old son discharged accidentally. They were hunting about 10 miles north of Camden near the Ouchilita River. Stone died later in a Camden hospital.

Claude Whitehead, 24, of Warren, died in a Warren hospital Saturday of injuries suffered last Tuesday in a wreck near Marianna. State Police said Whitehead's car, driven by Albert Beatty, 22, of Monticello, collided with a car driven by Gene Antry Willingham, 20, Negro of Bridges, Ark., as Willingham pulled onto U.S. Highway 79. Willingham was charged with involuntary manslaughter. State Trooper Elmer Bradshaw said.

Thomas Jefferson Smith, 67, of Magazine, was fatally shot in a hunting accident near Booneville Friday when he was mistaken for a deer. Deputy Sheriff Leo Cauthron said the fatal shot was fired from a .25 caliber rifle by Roy Smith, 36, Booneville High School principal. The Smiths were not related. Coroner O. L. Dexters ruled the shooting accidental.

Carolyn Williams, 19, of Paragould, died in a Paragould hospital Saturday of injuries suffered in a highway accident in which her father and brother were killed Friday. and captured some of the rebels. Another group had surrounded the homes of prominent military leaders and kidnapped eight of them. With some of their hostages they made their way to Wadi el Karm, a mountain village 30 miles north of Beirut they had turned into their stronghold.

A large force of loyal army tanks, armored cars and truckloads of troops converged on Wadi el Karm. Thus surrounded, the rebels gave up.

By the time most citizens awoke, Beirut was calm. Strong troop contingents and tanks at strategic points in the capital provided the only signs of trouble. During the day parliamentary deputies, religious leaders and prominent citizens called on President Chehab to show their support for the government.

The army reported mopping up operations continued Sunday and said Abdullah Saade, chief of the Popular Social party, was arrested carrying the equivalent of $50,000 in "foreign money." Large numbers of suspected plotters were picked up.

The Popular Social party has a long history of violence. Its members have been convicted of implicated in two assassinations. The party tried to seize power in 1948 but its leader was executed.

The group's goal is to join Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Palestine and Cyprus under one Arab flag into a so-called Greater Syria, following an old dream of unifying the "Fertile Crescent" across the top of the Arab world.

The party opposes the Arab unity movement led from Cairo by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and is outlawed through most of the Middle East.

Schools Seek Aid From Government

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Four Jefferson County school districts have applied for federal aid to help pay the cost of educating children whose parents are employed at the Pine Bluff Arsenal. Tips for the New Year: How to Hang Onto Your Husband!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Here I am facing 1962, with my husband still chasing after other women. Right now he is stepping out with a glitter gal. This breaks my heart, when I've given the best years of my life to the no-good.

He says if I don't like his way of life, leave. I have no place to go and, strange though it seems, I still love the man.

I've done for him so long I'd be miserable alone. He'd look like a tramp if I didn't start him off with the right clothes each day: tie, socks and cuff-links to harmonize with suit; clean shirt and handkerchief with three corners peeking up from breast pocket; shoes shined; hat brushed. Why do I go to all this trouble, I ask myself, when all it does is make him more attractive to women? Perhaps it's because we have no children. He's "my baby."

"Take all this phillandering in your stride," friends say, "your husband is no different from other men." Maybe they are right, but that doesn't stop the ache in my heart. Why should I who've always been a good wife, be in the discard? What do you advise? —Trouble Wife.

Dear Troubled Wife: A couple I know found themselves in a similar situation recently, with this difference—the husband had already walked out. They too were childless but seemed happy. The wife treated the man more like a child than a husband. I had already gone to bed late one night, when the phone rang. "My husband has left me," she wept. "There's another woman. Does he think I've no pride? My lawyer is seeing his lawyer tomorrow."

"Then you want a divorce?" I asked.

"A s-separation," she sobbed. How could he do this to me when I've always been a good wife?" "That depends upon your definition of 'good,'" I said. "No man leaves a wife who is 'good' in every sense of the word. Here, my conscience gave a twinge. After all the poor woman was in trouble. Why not show a little more compassion? Gently, I questioned her, getting the whole picture, bit by bit. "Good" in her dictionary meant "worthy," "pious," "right."

"Being always right was one of her faults," said the husband, when I cornered him next day. "She made me feel like a small boy forever being corrected. I wish to God she'd occasionally been wrong. It would have made living with her easier. That and the nagging got me." Then, he hastened to add, "Mind you, the nagging was probably justified. I'm no saint but—" That night, the wife phoned again. "I've just found out that he had more than one woman. Friends wonder why I ever stood for it. My lawyer will bring him to terms."

"What terms?" I asked.

"I'll only take him back if he toes the mark," she declared, defiantly. "No other women."

"What makes you think he wants to come back?" I inquired. "He told me he loved me." However, when pressed, she admitted that was long ago.

Next day she phoned for the third time. "I've cried the whole night through. All I want is my husband. I'm so lonely. I'll take him back on any terms. Will you help me?"

I agreed, provided she followed my instructions. First, she must write him a farewell note, saying all she wanted was his happiness. "I can't," she cried. "Farewell is goodbye and goodbye means forever!" "Not necessarily," I replied. "Goodbye can also be a come-on. Once a man is given his freedom he may find he doesn't want it, and scene."

You've been too possessive. You'll only get your husband back by letting him go."

The next step, was to make herself so attractive that he'd wonder why he ever left her unprotected. Here, I met real resistance. She no longer cared how she looked. Why worry about appearance when nothing mattered? I frankly needed her. If she ever hoped to retrieve her husband she must get busy at once. When the beauty salon, corsetiere and stylist of the town's best department store finished with her she looked 20 years younger. Unable to eat or sleep, the pounds had melted, leaving her figure as graceful and supple as a girl's. "Now what?" she asked plaintively.

"You're going to see your husband tonight, but only in passing," I said firmly. "The So-and-So's (mentioning mutual friends) have invited him to their home. You're dropping by to say goodbye to them."

"Goodbye again!" she exclaimed. "Why? Where am I going?" "On a cruise. I've reserved space in your name for that Caribbean holiday gala," I said briskly. "You're in a rut. What you need is a change of thought and scene."

At this point she rebelled. Did I think she was going to leave her husband in the clutches of these other women? "It's the only way you'll get him back," I warned. "You've got a role to play, that of a gay, carefree, potential grass-widow, with the whole, wide, wonderful world ahead. But mind you, when you do see your husband tonight, no recriminations! More flies are caught with sugar than vinegar."

She played her role well. Our friends said she'd never looked lovelier. Even her husband was impressed. Two days after the cruise ship had been at sea, I received a radiogram. It read, "Having second honeymoon," and was signed with her name and his. After seeing her so radiant and happy that night at our friends' home, looking like his bride of other years, the prodigal husband had booked passage next day on the same boat!

Miss Emma Ford and Mrs. and Mrs. Eural Ford have returned to their home in North Little Rock after having spent the holidays with their sister, Miss Evelyn Lee Ford. While in Hope the Fords were entertained in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Hughes.

Surrounding the sea and enlivened by semi-tropical foliage, the guests danced to the music of Lester Lanins' orchestra.

Kennedys See the Old Year Out

By FRANCES LEWINE

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) -

President Kennedy rang out the "troubled" days of 1961 at a New Year's Eve party. He welcomed the new year in an exchange of greetings with Soviet Premier Khrushchev that expressed hopes for peace in 1962.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy drove next door to the ocean mansion of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wrightman, for a black tie dinner-dance to which all their relatives here were invited.

Surrounding the sea and enlivened by semi-tropical foliage, the guests danced to the music of Lester Lanins' orchestra.

Bobcats Take Texarkana in Tourney Final

By VINCE FOSTER

The Hope Bobcats came from behind with a fourth quarter rally to win the finals of their own tournament over the Big 9 Texarkana Razorbacks by the score of 55-50 Saturday night. Lewisville lost a ten point lead in the final quarter and had to fight to edge out Sparkman 45-44 in the finals of the Girls' division.

The Cats and the Porkers were very well matched despite the fact that Texarkana had a 6'4" forward and a 6'3" center with lots of fall subs. The Cats and the Hogs fought to a 12-12 tie in the first period and were tied 23 all at the half. However the Razorbacks pulled out front 36-35 in the third period, matching the Bobcats point for point.

In the final period, the Hogs lost Hucklebee, their big center who fouled out. Hope took advantage of this break and in the final minutes enjoyed a seven point lead. Two free throws by the Porkers in the last seconds put them five points from victory, so the Bobcats took revenge of the 35-31 defeat suffered by last year's Cats at the hands of Texarkana in the finals of the same tournament.

Jeffery Powell was high for the Cats with 17, Hatfield sacked 15, Russell hit 11, and Porterfield had 10. Roberts scored two to complete the scoring. The deciding factor in the game was that Hope took advantage of their chances from the free throw line. Hope was beaten on field goals 21-16, but by hitting 23 free throws to Texarkana's 8, the Cats were able to pull out the victory.

In the girls' game Lewisville controlled a slight lead throughout the game. Sparkman's Gaston was deadly with her two-handed push shot and sacked a total of 30 points, to give her a three game tourney total of 71 or 23.7 average. All three Lewisville forwards hit in double figures with Nelson sacking 17, McClendon hit 14 and also many valuable rebounds and Fullen had 12. Lewisville led 12-8, 24-24, 34-31 & 45-44.

After the Hope-Texarkana game Hope Principal Jack Beatty expressed appreciation to all who made the tournament the success it was and then he awarded runnup trophies to Sparkman and Texarkana and winner trophies to Lewisville and Hope.

The Cats now have a 7-2 record and will meet Malvern in their first conference game here Saturday night. Friday they travel to Nashville and will be trying to get revenge over the two point loss to the Scorpions early in the season. Tuesday night the Senior and Junior Girls plus the "B" Boys play host to Guernsey.

Kennedy gets back to work Tuesday when Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Pentagon officials fly in to discuss defense matters.

Sunday night, though, the President, and his wife, Jacqueline, relaxed in a party atmosphere with close friends.

Among the guests were David Ormsby Core, the new British ambassador to Washington, and his wife. They are old friends of the Kennedys.

Before turning to an evening of relaxation, the President made public an exchange of New Year's greetings with Soviet leaders in which both sides hoped for peace and better relations in 1962.

Kennedy reminded Khrushchev of their grave responsibility for strengthening the foundation of peace in 1962.

"The year which is ending has been a troubled one," Kennedy said in his message to Khrushchev and Leonid Brezhnev, president of the Supreme Soviet. "It's our earnest hope that the coming year will strengthen the foundations of world peace and will bring an improvement in the relations between our countries on which so much depends. It is our grave responsibility to fulfill that hope."

The Russians, in their greetings noted that peace or war hinges largely on Soviet-American relations. They expressed the hope that in the new year "there will be undertaken efficient steps in the cause of liquidation of centers of military danger."

"On the part of the Soviet Union as before," they said, "there will be no lack of resolution to do everything in its power to ensure durable and lasting peace on our planet."

Saylors Big News in AIC Cage Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The winning average of Arkansas State Teachers and the scoring average of Arkansas Tech's Ken Saylors are the big news at the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference swings back to league competition after a week of tournaments.

Teachers pushed its record to 10-1 by winning two games in the Harrison Holiday basketball festival. Tech won two of three games in the MIAA Tournament in Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Saylors' scoring average went to 35.5 points per game.

Saylors scored 45 points in a semifinal game, but was held to 21 in the final game, in which Tech lost to Southern Illinois, 68-48.

Snow, Rain Hits Part of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and a mixture of rain and snow dampened the arrival of the new year today in broad areas in the eastern half of the nation, including parts of the southland.

Cold weather continued across northern areas with some of the chilly air dipping southward into sections of Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas. It was mild in most of Florida.

Fresh snow fell in eastern Tennessee, extreme western North Carolina and in or near mountain sections of South Carolina and Georgia. More than an inch of snow was reported in the area of Fort Payne, Ala. The rain belt extended across most of Georgia, Alabama and much of the Carolinas.

Temperatures dropped into the low 30s in the snow areas in the South and to the 40s in southern parts of Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina. It was 69 in Miami.

Light snow powdered areas in the northeastern Plains, the Great Lakes region and in the north-eastern Ohio Valley.

Temperatures around zero were reported in some northern Midwest areas as more cold air from Canada extended into border sections of Minnesota and Michigan.

Civilians Attack Portugal Barracks

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—A group of civilians attacked an army barracks in Beja, Alentejo Province, today, the Army Ministry announced. Lt. Col. Jaime Felipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for the army and the rebel leader were reported critically wounded.

The army said the situation is under control and that many arrests have been made. The assault at Beja, called by some a Communist stronghold, took place at dawn, the army said, and fighting continued for some time.

The insurgent leader was identified as Capt. Varela Gomes as an opposition candidate for Parliament in the November election. He was reported near death in Beja hospital.

They're content? Because they have pride. They've worked for whatever they've got — from the land or the sea—instead of sitting about whining for doles and hand-outs.

"It's odd," Dennis said coolly, "how much talk about the advantages of poverty one hears from people standing about swimming pools with drinks in their hands."

That one slipped under her guard; I saw that it hurt. "I consider that extremely rude," she said quietly.

"I'm afraid it was meant to be," Dennis said. He inclined his head a formal inch, turned and strode up through the gardens toward the house.

I made some sort of apology to Francesca and hurried after. Dennis found him standing in front of the Snail, staring down the 500-yard stretch of rubble which twisted along the hillside toward the firm without the aid of high heels.

From that point the sor-ry condition of the road was painful used," she said. "See! Do fully evident; it was a goat-track, you ever see anything in Spain? nothing more, criss-crossed with Have you seen a laborer in a cracks and fissures, pock-marked cafe, content with a cigarette and with erosion, blocked here and a glass of wine?
